Dear Dr. Krishnan;

We invite you to become a member of the editorial board of Telemedicine and e-Health. This journal is an official journal of the American Telemedicine Association (ATA) and is ranked as the number one telemedicine journal in the world. It serves the ATA and a number of other organizations worldwide as the leading authoritative journal covering all aspects of telemedicine. It provides an outstanding resource for the membership, academia and industry as the leading collection of science and lessons learned about telemedicine and e-health.

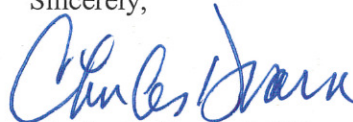

You are being invited to serve as an active member of the editorial board because of your contributions to the field of telemedicine and e-health and your expertise in telemedicine.

Your appointment to the editorial board is for a period of two years, beginning July 1, 2018. As an editor, you are expected to be active in reviewing select manuscripts for consideration as publishable in the Journal. From time to time, we may also call on you for guidance and input on strategic initiatives.

Should you accept this unique responsibility, please send us a written correspondence. The Journal's editorial offices are located at the University of Cincinnati. (see left column)

We look forward to your active participation in this endeavor. Together we will take Telemedicine and e-Health to new levels.

Sincerely,

Charles R. Doarn, MBA
